

XII International Symposium on Evolutionary Economics
"Heterodox Economics versus Economic Reductionism: Problems of Macro- and Meso- Level
Analysis"
21-23-September 2017, Pushchino,
Moscow region

Call for Papers

The symposium will be held by the Centre for Evolutionary Economics in collaboration with the Institute of Economics (IE) and the Central Economics and Mathematics Institute (CEMI), both of the Russian Academy of Sciences (RAS), and the New Economic Association, with the support of the Russian Foundation for Basic Research.

The symposium welcomes contributions that address the issues below, plus other relevant topics:

- methodological problems of economic theory at the macro- and meso-levels;
- analysis of the evolution and economic reproduction of capital;
- theoretical foundations and practices of industrial policy at the macro- and meso- levels;
- analysis of the statics and dynamics in economic institutional structures;
- mathematical modelling and applied research in Heterodox Economics.

Submissions will be evaluated by a Scientific Committee whose Co-Chairs are Academicians of RAS: Vladimir Majeviskiy (IE RAS) and Valeriy Makarov (CEMI RAS), and Committee Members: a foreign Academician of RAS Askar Akayev (Lomonosov Moscow State University), Dr.Sc. Svetlana Kirdina-Chandler (IE RAS), corresponding member of RAS Georgiy Kleiner (CEMI RAS), Dr.Sc. Elena Lenchuk (IE RAS), Dr.Sc. Nataliya Makasheva (INION RAS), Prof. Wolfram Elsner (University of Bremen, Germany).

Abstracts of the symposium will be published in Russian and English. A selection of the final papers will be published in a collective monograph continuing a series of Pushchino symposia proceedings which have been published since 1995.

For participants included in the programme of the symposium, the organizing committee will provide accommodation and food in Pushchino and transfer Moscow - Pushchino - Moscow.

For your abstract submissions (300 words maximum), please use the LINK. The abstract submission deadline is 25 May 2017.